Ann Krause Becomes Bride in Ceremony at St. Mark's

Wed to John M. Friend In Evening Service

UNDOUBTEDLY one of the chief topics of conversation when society gathers today in town and country is going to be the beauty of the ceremony in which auburn-haired Ann Krause and John M. Friend were married last evening in St. Mark's Episcopal church.

In gilt holders, tall candles flamed in phalanxes down the walls of the church, and then converged on the altar, where low gold bowls, set in banks of tapers, held white chrysanthemums. Golden yellow as the glow of those hundreds of candles were the flowing marquisette frocks worn by the eight young women who attended the bride; her own dress was glistening white satin, which reflected the soft light in its folds as she walked down the aisle to take her place at the altar.

Carol Ann Youngest Member of Party

Youngest member of that wedding party was the bride's niece, small Carol Ann Krause, who wore a floor length yellow marquisette frock that was almost an exact copy of the ones worn by the bridesmaids—Mrs. Robert H. Kieckhefer of Tucson, Ariz., Mrs. F. James Sensenbrenner of Evanston, and Misses Betty Alice Friend, Marianne Elser, Elise Ott, Mary Singer of Easton, Md.; Erminie Sherman and Mary Balding. They wore tight little boleros of embroidered marquisette over their frocks, which had extremely bouffant marquisette skirts gathered on to fitted decollete embroidered bodices. Gladioli florets, shading from pale yellow to deep coral, were formed into long plumes to make their bouquets, and they wore clusters of the pale yellow florets in their hair.

The bride's satin dress, depending on the flowing princess line and its long, full train for effectiveness, had for its only trimming panels of satin applique, in a tulip design, at either side of the bodice, from shoulders to waist. The sleeves were long and fitted. Her long tulle veil was held to a simple shirred tulle Juliet cap, edged with a double row of pearl embroidery. She carried a cascade of white orchids and stephanotis.

Reception Held at University Club

Mr. Friend, son of the Robert Friends of Pine lake, had John Harley as his best man. Other young men in the wedding party were his brothers, Carl and Ned Friend, Mr. Kieckhefer, James Russell Duncan, Herbert Brumder Jr., Wightman Winkler and Jack Briggs.

From the church, the bridal party led the way to the University club, where the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Krause Sr. of E. Kenwood blvd. and Pine lake, gave a large reception.

They received with the young couple and their attendants in the lower lounge of the club, which was lighted with banks of candles. Perfect foil for the golden yellow of the attendants' frocks was the gray green velour hanging which curtained the East wall of the room to form a background for the receiving group. At either side the hanging were large walnut urns filled with spidery white chrysanthemums, daisies, white gladioli and tall gilded branches.

Mrs. Krause was wearing a short sleeved fuchsia net frock, its full skirt trimmed with vertical appliques of ostrich tips, its deep color accented by her shoulder cluster of purple throated white orchids. Mrs. Friend's frock was emerald green crepe, with pearl and gold embroidery edging the short bolero jacket. Her flowers were gold and green orchids.

Assisting at the reception was the bride's sister, Mrs. William C. Horner, who wore a sky blue faille taffeta frock, its full skirt flounced at the hem, its fitted bodice trimmed with silver and rhinestone embroidery.

Upstairs, an orchestra played for dancing in the big ballroom, where the walls were lined with luminous columns and garlanded with smilax, and in the adjoining west dining room, the big u-shaped buffet table was laid. Flanking the wedding cake in the center of the table were columns of huckleberry foliage, holding flat, modern arrangements of lime green branches, white Fuji chrysanthemums, dwarf calla lilies and cascades of pale green frosted grapes.

Both Members of Pine Lake Colony

Toasts pledged to the happiness of the young couple at the reception were the last in a long series of "best wishes," for they have had parties given for them ever since their wedding date was announced, a month or so ago. The two are both members of the Pine lake summer colony, where their families have had homes for years. The bride, an active member of the Milwaukee Junior league, was educated at Milwaukee-Downer seminary and Mount Vernon junior college at Washington, D. C. Mr. Friend prepared at Milwaukee Country Day and Choate, and took his college work at Cornell, which is almost a family college in his clan.

The two are motoring to Canada on their honeymoon. They haven't as yet found a house or apartment, and so they will be at either the Krause home in town, or in the country, when they return around Oct. 1.

Auburn haired Ann Krause wore classic white satin for her wedding to John M. Friend Saturday evening at St. Mark's Episcopal church. Following the 8 p. m. ceremony, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Krause Sr., of E. Kenwood blvd., and Pine lake, gave a large reception at the University club.

Miss Compty, William Elsen Are Married

In St. Rose's church Saturday morning Miss Margaret Jane Compty and William J. Elsen were married in an 11 o'clock ceremony which was followed by a wedding breakfast and reception at the Astor hotel.

Wearing autumn colored frocks, the bride's attendants were Margaret Kreisel, the maid of honor; Suzanne Elsen, a sis-

Elizabeth Tormey Wed In Madison Ceremony

MISS ELIZABETH HELEN TORMEY, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas William Tormey of Madison, and Joseph Gustav Werner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Werner, Adams, were married Saturday at 10 a. m. in St. Raphael's church in Madison. The Rev. William Mahoney heard them repeat their vows before an altar decorated simply with vases of gladioli.

For something old, the bride carried the handkerchief that had been made for her mother to carry at her wedding. For something borrowed, she wore the long ivory tulle veil, held to her hair by a coronet of Madison, as best man, and Harold Thoenig of Madison and Capt. Harold Keeffe of Dayton, O. Ushers were William Keating, Milwaukee; Fred Suhr, William Riley, and Dr. Weston Cole Tormey, a brother of the bride, all of Madison.

Wedding Breakfast At Madison Club

Following the ceremony a breakfast for members of the immediate families was held at the Madison club. In the afternoon a reception was held at the Tormey home.

Society Reluctant to Leave Summer Homes

THE changing countryside, filled with sunshine and the red and bronze coloring of early autumn, makes summer colonists reluctant to leave their country homes. While many have been in town to complete school plans of their children they are now returning to the nearby lakes for another week or so.

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Daggett, N. Hackett av., are in the contingent prolonging their stay in the country. They will leave their Beaver lake home about Sept. 22. Their son, Joe, is commuting to Milwaukee Country Day school and their older son, James Jr., is returning to Carleton college for his senior year.

Other members remaining in the Beaver lake colony are Mr. and Mrs. C. Frederick Duecker and the Frederick C. Windings.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh W. Randall will remain at their Pine lake summer home until Oct. 15 and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harnischfeger with their family won't return until the end of September. The Walter F. Kieckhefers returned from Pine lake Saturday to their town house on E. Bradford av.

George Blakneys to Stay at North Lake

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Thwaits, who moved back to town from their Oconomowoc lake home, will return to the lake for another week. Their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Van Alyea, are occupying their home at Oconomowoc for another week or so.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Wood, E. Newberry blvd., who spend many of their weekends during the fall and winter at their home at Oconomowoc lake, have moved into town but Mrs. Wood and their children will be out there this coming week.

The George Blakneys too will continue their stay at their North lake home for another two weeks. Their daughter, Barbara, is entering the Brownmoor School for Girls in Santa Fe this fall.

Although Mr. and Mrs. Albert F. Gallun have officially returned to town from Pine lake they will spend next week at their summer home and will likely go out during the weekends until winter.

Booths Will Spend Winter at Pewaukee

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Pollock, who have been occupying the summer home of Mrs. Pollock's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lindsay, at Oconomowoc, will be at the lake until Sept. 20. Their daughter, Nancy, is coming in each day to attend Milwaukee-Downer seminary, but their young sons, George and Lindsay, students at State Teachers college, do not return to school until the twenty-second.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight D. Booth, E. Newberry blvd., have decided not to return to town this fall and will spend the winter at their summer home at Pewaukee lake with their children, Sue, Judy and Dwight.

The Karl O. Bellacks, N. Summit av., are returning today from their summer home at Oconomowoc for Monday their daughter, Jane, leaves for the East to visit with friends before returning to Connecticut College for Women. Their son, David, returns to Milwaukee University school and the following week another daughter, Nancy, leaves for the East to enter Pine Manor junior college. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hine also will return to town Sunday. Their daughter, Virginia, is returning to Vassar and their son, Robert Jr., to Country Day. Miss Frances Adler will remain at Oconomowoc until late in October, returning then to her apartment at the Cudahy Tower.

Johnstons Still At Lake Beulah

Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Cunningham, N. Lake dr., are home from their summer place at Holland, Mich. Their daughter, Ruth, will attend Milwaukee-Downer seminary as a senior and her twin, David, will attend Milwaukee Country Day school.

The Harry S. Johnstons, who summer at Lake Beulah, are remaining in the country until after Sept. 20 when their son, Stephen, is to be married to Miss Maryan Rockteacher at Eagle, Wis.

Lassie Beese Is Married to C. W. Dorman

In an informal ceremony at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter T. Beese on N. Larkin st., Miss Lassie Laurine Beese became the bride of Clifford Warren Dorman Saturday at 4 o'clock. Judge Elmer S. Owen, a friend of the bride's parents, read the service.

The bride's sister, Ruth, of Evanston, was her only attendant, and Robert Bosser was best man for Mr. Dorman, who is the son of Mrs. Henry Dunsirn of Appleton. The bride wore a beige wool suit, to which she pinned alba lilies, with a brown off the face hat; her sister was in a gray-blue suit with brown accessories and she too wore alba lilies. A family dinner was served after the ceremony and in the evening a reception was held at the Shorewood Masonic lodge.

Mr. Dorman and his bride, after a northern Wisconsin honeymoon, will make their

Miss Sue Eldred's engagement to Theodore Erdman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric H. Erdman of Elm Grove, is being announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Glenn R. Eldred of Wauwatosa.

Betrothal of Sue Eldred to Be Told Today

A big red heart, tied with white satin ribbon, on the door of the Glenn R. Eldreds' home on Wauwatosa av., Wauwatosa, will tell guests arriving at their open house this afternoon the romantic purpose of the party, the announcement of the engagement of their daughter, Sue, whose birthday the open house will celebrate, to Theodore Erdman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eric H. Erdman of Elm Grove.

Miss Eldred attended Milwaukee-Downer college. Her fiance is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and the Marquette university law school.

New England Group To Hear Mrs. Hobart

Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart of Cincinnati, president of the National Society of New England women, will speak at the luncheon meeting of the local colony to be held Friday at the YWCA. Mrs. Hobart is a past president of the American Legion auxiliary and the Daughters of the American Revolution.
